

Responding to the Sexual Exploitation and Trafficking of Youth

Laura Nagel

With both experiential and professional knowledge of commercial sexual exploitation, Laura approaches her work with the mission to “Do Less Harm.” Before coming to CCYJ, Laura provided wraparound services and case management to commercially sexually exploited children (CSEC) in Bangkok, Thailand and throughout Washington State. She pursued an MA in Counseling Psychology before realizing that she wants to collaborate with systems-involved partners for systems-level reform for CSEC. Laura provides technical assistance to Washington’s CSEC task forces, collects CSEC data, and innovating ways to increase statewide collaboration. Laura holds a BA in psychology and women’s studies from Seattle Pacific University.
